Fertility Friendly Lubricant

For use when trying for a baby

Unlike ordinary lubricants which can harm sperm, Clearblue Fertility Friendly Lubricant has been designed to create the optimal environment for sperm survival, which is why it is most suitable for use by couples trying to conceive. By working in harmony with your body it provides comfort and lubrication during sex.

Clearblue Fertility Friendly Lubricant is pH balanced and isotonic to be sperm friendly. The light texture helps maintain sperm health, survival and movement and comes in a pre-filled tube for easy application.

If you're trying for a baby have you thought about using an ovulation test? Clearblue offers a wide range of ovulation tests that identify your fertile days to maximise your chances of getting pregnant naturally.

1 When to use

Example of how High and Peak days could appear in a cycle.

Use one applicator before having sex. The lubricant is designed for couples trying to conceive so for best results use during your most fertile days. Insert a maximum of 15 minutes before having sex.

2 How to use

You may find inserting the tube easier when laying down.

Take one pre-filled tube and hold so that the contents move towards the narrow end of the tube.

Twist off the tab at the narrow end of the tube.

Before having sex, insert the narrow end of the tube into your vagina.

Squeeze out the contents.

Keep squeezing as you remove the tube.

Discard the tube.
